

We love always them who admire us and do not always love them whom we admire